Rahu-Ketu Axis

The karmic axis in your birth chart

Rahu in Scorpio (House 5) / Ketu in Taurus (House 11)

NO KAL SARPA DOSHA

Rahu in Scorpio

House 5 · Anuradha · 13.37°

Rahu in the 5th house intensifies creativity, speculation, and desire for recognition. Romance may involve unconventional partners, and children may bring both joy and unexpected lessons.

Ketu in Taurus

House 11 · Rohini · 13.37°

Ketu in the 11th house gives detachment from social networks and material gains. Friendships are few but karmically significant, and desires are fulfilled without conscious pursuit.

Your Karmic Axis Meaning

The Scorpio-Taurus axis represents a karmic tug-of-war between worldly desire (House 5) and spiritual detachment (House 11). Rahu pulls you toward new experiences and ambitions in the Scorpio domain, while Ketu asks you to release attachment to the Taurus domain where you already have past-life mastery. Balancing both sides of this axis is the central karmic lesson of your lifetime.

Why Rahu & Ketu Matter

Rahu and Ketu are mathematical points (lunar nodes) where the Moon's orbit intersects the ecliptic. Though not physical planets, they carry immense karmic weight. Rahu represents the soul's unfulfilled desires — what it hungers to experience in this lifetime. Ketu represents past-life mastery — talents and wisdom already earned but which now create detachment. When all planets fall between these two nodes, the Kal Sarpa formation traps karmic energy along a single axis, intensifying both the struggles and the eventual breakthroughs.

What is Kal Sarpa Dosha

Understanding the cosmic serpent formation

Kal Sarpa Dosha (meaning ‘Serpent of Time’) occurs when all seven planets (Sun, Moon, Mars, Mercury, Jupiter, Venus, Saturn) are positioned between Rahu (North Node) and Ketu (South Node) in a birth chart. This creates a serpent-like formation where Rahu represents the head and Ketu the tail of the cosmic serpent. Named after the divine serpents in Hindu mythology, this dosha is considered one of the most significant karmic patterns in Vedic astrology.

The Cosmic Serpent Mythology

In Vedic mythology, Rahu and Ketu were once a single demon called Svarbhanu who disguised himself and drank the nectar of immortality (Amrit). Lord Vishnu severed his head with the Sudarshan Chakra, but since he had already consumed the amrit, both halves became immortal — the head became Rahu and the body became Ketu. Together they represent karmic debts from past lives, illusions (Maya), and the soul’s evolutionary journey through cycles of birth and death.

How It Forms

- All 7 planets must be on one side of the Rahu-Ketu axis
- If all planets are hemmed between Rahu and Ketu, it is Full Kal Sarpa Dosha
- If 1–2 planets escape the axis, it is Partial Kal Sarpa Dosha (less severe)
- There are 12 types based on which house Rahu occupies (1st through 12th)
- Ascending type: planets move from Rahu to Ketu — material life struggles
- Descending type: planets move from Ketu to Rahu — spiritual life struggles

Summary

Your chart does NOT show the Kaal Sarpa enclosure pattern. The classical planets are distributed on both sides of the Rahu-Ketu axis, so the enclosure is not complete. This is generally considered favorable, indicating fewer karmic obstacles classically associated with this pattern.

How Is Kal Sarpa Dosha Detected?

Kal Sarpa Dosha is determined by examining whether all seven planets (Sun, Moon, Mars, Mercury, Jupiter, Venus, Saturn) fall between Rahu (North Node) and Ketu (South Node) in the birth chart. When all planets are hemmed on one side of the Rahu-Ketu axis, the serpent formation is complete (Full). If one or two planets escape the axis, it is considered Partial. The direction — Ascending (Rahu leads) or Descending (Ketu leads) — depends on which node occupies the upper hemisphere.

Key Factors in Detection

- Full Kal Sarpa Dosha (all 7 planets inside) has the strongest karmic impact on life events.
- Partial dosha (1–2 planets outside) significantly reduces intensity and is more manageable.
- Ascending type (Rahu in houses 1–6) tends to affect material and worldly pursuits more strongly.
- Descending type (Ketu leads) inclines toward spiritual struggles and inner transformation.
- Natural benefic influences (Jupiter, Venus aspects) on Rahu-Ketu can mitigate the dosha's effects.
